Progressive Credit Union upgrading in Woodstock

In a move designed to position Progressive Credit Union for the future, they are building a new location for their Woodstock Branch.

CEO Rhonda Calhoun says the move has been approved because the time is right. "We are just coming off another successful fiscal year, we are continuing to grow, and part of the reason for that is the support we are receiving from the people of Woodstock and the surrounding area. We have reached the point where we have outgrown our current location, and since we believe in our community's future we are investing in a new location, with better visibility and more services."

The new 1900 square foot branch will be in the strip mall across from McDonalds on Connell Road. Says Calhoun, "we will move in and open up as soon as construction is complete, which is expected to be this fall".

The new facility will have two ATMs, one a drive through the other in the lobby. As well there will be a night depository. "We believe this new location will be more convenient for our members, and with more visibility we are hopeful it may attract some new ones, once they investigate and realize our overwhelming satisfaction rate is reflective of the relationship we have with our members, and the financial services they have come to appreciate."
